What is to be done with Mexico?

The general and intense interest excited by the stuporous events in Europe has withdrawn public attention almost entirely from Mexico at a time when a careful consideration of Mexican affairs is most essential. Recent advice diminishes the probability that the Treaty will be ratified at Queretaro—indeed, we have scarcely a hope of it. Even if it were to be ratified, it would give us no real and lasting peace so long as we retained possession of New Mexico and other integral portions of the Mexican Republic of 1824. The moment our troops are withdrawn, the military and other demagogues will make the cessation of territory a pretext for new pronunciamientos and insurrections, and the shadow of a Government at Queretaro will vanish before the general hostility of a race cowardly and base to defend their soil, yet too proud not to be humiliated, and stung to madness by a public acknowledgment that they have lost it—New rulers will be installed on the basis of execution of the Treaty, and they will be compelled to disavow and disregard it, or fall in turn before another swarm of adventurers as greedy and unprincipled as themselves.

If the Treaty shall be rejected—as we are confident it will—there is just this alternative open to us: Either call home our troops now in the heart of Mexico, hold on to whatever of Mexican territory we need to keep, and apprehend, he determined to advance upon Santa Cruz, where Government trains with from $300 to 2,000 troops were stationed.

General Trias, the Mexican chief, having fortified the place, awaited the attack. After a fruitless party of eight days, Gen. Price assaulted, and, although a gallant resistance was made, succeeded in taking the place, and capturing fourteen pieces of artillery, two thousand stand of arms, and some $300,000 worth of property.

On the 13th, Gen. Price proceeded with part of his force to Chihuahua, leaving Lieut. Col. Hall in command of the remainder, with orders to follow him as far as practicable. Gen. Trias, forty of his officers, and his troops were paroled. The Mexican loss was 150 killed, and as many wounded. Our loss was five killed and twenty wounded, of whom two have since died.

LATER FROM MEXICO. Peace Prospects.—BURDEN Trials American Deserters From Chihuahua.—Bearers of Dispatches from Gen. Price.—Captain of Santa Cruz & Co.

PARIS, Wednesday, May 16.

The Special Daily Express from the New York Tribune has arrived from New Orleans, bringing dates to the 4th last.

The echo Heros arrived from Vera Cruz on the 24 instant. No quorum of the Congress, at Queretaro, had yet been gathered. Sixteen Deputies and four Senators were still waiting for the transaction of business. The members of the Congress who had arrived, expressed themselves as being very favorably disposed for peace.

The trial of Captains Heron, Dutton, and the other persons accused of the late murder, and attempt at burglary, is still going on.

Fifteen or twenty American deserters enlisted recently in the Mexican army.

The steamship Fashion, from Erazos Santiago, on the 13th ult. had arrived. Among the passengers was J. L. Collins of New York City, who bears dispatches from Govs. Price and Wool to Washington. He states that about the 6th of March, a Mexican Lieutenant sent word that a small party had been captured near El Paso.

This, with information that Gen. Urrea had designs upon post, induced Gen. Price to proceed to its relief.

But, finding on his arrival there, that no such danger was to be apprehended, he determined to advance upon Santa Cruz, where Government trains with from $300 to 2,000 troops were stationed.

General Trias, the Mexican chief, having fortified the place, awaited the attack. After a fruitless party of eight days, Gen. Price assaulted, and, although a gallant resistance was made, succeeded in taking the place, and capturing fourteen pieces of artillery, two thousand stand of arms, and some $300,000 worth of property.

The recent events in Paris, showing how firmly entrenched the new Government is in the heart of the Peninsula, have also had the effect of bringing the cause of popular liberty, an equalization to the cause of legitimate order.
